

REMARKS

The present application has been amended in response to the Examiner's Office Action to place the application in condition for allowance. Applicant, by the amendments presented above, has made a concerted effort to present claims which clearly define over the prior art of record, and thus to place this case in condition for allowance.

Regarding page 2 and Examiner's two specific objections, Applicant attaches four printouts marked A, B, C and D, produced by a Google search which shows this kind of product to be known. As it appears to be referred to as a "mirror TV", the above expression has been inserted into Claim 1 to replace "the mirror vision principle". Regarding the Examiner's objection to "the media type", this has been replaced in Claim 1 by "said visual display device". Also in Claim 1, the opening words "A heating radiator or heated towel rail..." have been amended to "A heating device, such as a radiator or towel rail...", with all the opening wording of all the sub-claims amended to "A heating device...". Consistency amendments have been effected to Claims 2-20.

It is noted that Examiner raised no '102 objections, but only '103 objections.

Considering WO 03/081905, Applicant's Claim 1 is directed to a heating device, either in the form of a (space) heating radiator, or a towel rail which doubles as a towel drying/airing device and as a space heating device.

WO 03/081905 is not a heating device of any form, but relates to a TV, inset into a bathroom wall, and is concerned with the safe supply of power in a moisture laden atmosphere.

The Examiner refers to paragraph 13 of WO 03-081905, but this refers to the heating of the TV to dissuade condensation, and is not a (space) heating device.

JP 02285172 similarly does not disclose a heating device, but a TV inset into a bathroom wall (see Figs 1, 3 and 6) and proposes dual use (TV/mirror) on limited wall space.

US 5210611 is similarly not concerned with a (space) heating device, but rather relates to auto tuning.

Applicant's heating device and integrated TV/mirror offers the possibility of upgrading a bathroom, particularly multiple hotel bathrooms, at minimum installation cost -- with WO 03/081905 and JP02285172, the wall must be excavated and then made good with possible re-tiling and/or re-decorating.

In contrast, Applicant's heating device - considered for example in the tubular embodiment for the through flow of hot water - can be supplied in industry-standard lengths e.g. 4ft, 6ft etc so that a plumber may simply remove an ordinary central heating radiator or an ordinary towel rail of standard 4ft, 6ft etc length, and install one of Applicants, using the same water inlet and outlet connectors, to provide a TV facility to a bathroom, without the need to excavate a wall and make good afterwards, with minimal installation time, such that bathroom may be back in use in the minimal time, which is of considerable interest to hotel owners, and furthermore, just like an inset TV (in contrast to a free-standing TV) Applicant's TV is virtually theft proof, which is a not insignificant consideration for hotels, sports clubs etc and other buildings to which the general public has access.

It is submitted that neither WO 03/081905, or JP02285172, or US5210611 taken singularly or together disclose or suggest the integration of a TV into a utility heating item such as a radiator or towel rail, with the minimal installation costs and disruption outlined above, and consequently Claim 1, amended to remove the deficiencies pointed out by the Examiner, should be found patentable, together with the appended sub-claims.

In view of the above remarks, Applicant respectfully submits that the claims of the present application should be allowed. Should the present claims not be deemed adequate to effectively define the patentable subject matter, the Examiner is respectfully urged to call the undersigned attorney of record to discuss the claims in an effort to reach an agreement toward allowance of the present application.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: January 19, 2010

What is a Mirror TV?

A Mirror TV is a special two-way mirror with an LCD TV or Plasma TV screen behind it. When the TV is on you see the display, when it's turned off you see your reflection.

Design

The emphasis is on helping people integrate their LCD TV or Plasma TV into the existing decor without compromising on style. Decor is important, as is space, which makes a wall mounted display a good choice over a conventional LCD TV or Plasma TV.

With a mirror TV you can hide or reveal your TV so that it becomes part of your room decor. Traditionally one decorating solution for the area above a fireplace mantle is to place a large mirror there to make the room appear larger and to make a large fireplace more elegant. With the rising popularity of LCD TVs and Plasma TVs, decorators have been faced with the decision of whether to place a mirror above the fireplace or an LCD or Plasma TV. A Mirror TV lets you do both. You can go with a traditional mirror above the fireplace and at the same time have the TV hidden using a TV Mirror.

So whether your decorating solution is to hide or cover your TV, a Mirror TV will help you achieve the look you want.

LCD Mirror TV or Plasma Mirror TV

Whether you feel an LCD TV or a Plasma TV is the best TV for you, you will find that a Mirror TV will work beautifully. With a fixed-end mirror TV you can have a beautiful Mirror TV at a much lower cost with the added benefit of being able to purchase the LCD or Plasma TV of your choice. You don't want to be forced into one TV technology or brand; you know what TV is best for you.

the government's performance of its obligations under international law, including its obligation to respect the autonomy of individuals, persons, and communities. The Land Commission's approach has been to take a rights-based approach and strategy around the concept of community self-government, recognizing the importance of traditional Aboriginal title and the right of Aboriginal peoples to self-government. This approach has been successful. Many Aboriginal communities have adopted a rights-based approach and strategy that protects their own specific circumstances from the broader Canadian state framework.
